Origin Materials - Email to Employees

EMAIL SUBJECT: Announcement – Origin plans to go public!

Team,

Big news today.

We have reached a significant milestone for Origin: We plan to go public and list our stock on the Nasdaq. This is essentially an initial public offering (IPO), accomplished through a business combination with a special purpose acquisition company (SPAC). Our SPAC partner, who you are going to love, is Artius Acquisition Inc. Check out the press release issued this morning announcing the transaction, which you can find here: [Link to release].

So, what does this mean for all of us?

First, we will continue to operate under the Origin Materials name. Because Artius is already publicly traded, by merging with it Origin will become a public company when the deal is complete, trading on the Nasdaq under a new ticker symbol. The boards of directors of both Origin and Artius have unanimously approved the proposed transaction, and we expect the transaction to complete in the second quarter of 2021.

The transaction will provide up to $925 million in funding – significant resources to support our aggressive growth strategy.

It's exciting news and we should all feel good about what we have built together. And we are all the more excited to kick off the next chapter in our company's journey as the world's leading carbon negative materials company.

Now, as we start this new chapter, there will also be new rules we will all need to follow. The SEC has strict guidelines governing external communications. To avoid delays or any other repercussions from the SEC if we do not adhere to these rules, everyone must avoid speaking publicly about this process, our business metrics, and financials. In the same vein, please refrain from making statements about our company or our performance in open forums (including online, to friends, on Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, via email, to existing or prospective customers, etc.). Please see the attached guidelines for posting on social media about this event. And if something isn't clear to you – all you have to do is ask.

Now, given the excitement around the announcement, people are bound to ask you questions. If someone asks you about the process of going public or company fundamentals, the best response is something like, "We're really proud and excited, but it's business as usual at Origin." If pushed further, you can say something like, "I can't speak to that, but I would be happy to connect you with the appropriate person."

It's absolutely critical to bring caution and judgment to each of those situations if they come up.

If you receive any press inquiries, please forward them to Evan Winchester (Senior Marketing Manager, elwinchester@originmaterials.com), who can help handle media requests during this especially sensitive time. Communications are highly regulated throughout the process of becoming a public company, so please know that we will continue to share updates with you as we have more to report.

This is an exciting moment for Origin. You should all feel proud today. Thank you to everyone for your continued hard work and dedication. We are looking forward to this next phase of Origin's evolution, as we look to execute on our mission to enable the world's transition to sustainable materials.

Now let's get to work.

Origin Materials - Email to Customers/Partners

EMAIL SUBJECT: Origin Plans to Go Public!

Dear [Customer/Partner Name],

As a valued partner to Origin, we wanted to take a moment to let you know about some exciting news you may read about in the news media. Today, we are thrilled to announce a significant milestone for Origin as we plan to go public and list our stock on the Nasdaq through a business combination with a special purpose acquisition company (SPAC), Artius Acquisition Inc. (Artius) (Nasdaq: AACQU, AACQ).

Because Artius is already publicly traded, Origin will become a public company when the deal is complete, trading under a new ticker symbol. Please bear in mind that we will continue to operate under the Origin Materials name and there will be no meaningful changes to the team or how we do business. It's business as usual at Origin. We are excited to continue to work together to enable the world's transition to sustainable materials and to help our customers reach their decarbonization goals.

Thank you sincerely for the part that you have played in getting us to this point, and we look forward to continuing our collaboration. For more information, you can view the press release we issued this morning announcing the transaction, which can be viewed at the following link: [Link to release].

Please don't hesitate to reach out with any questions.

Best, [Name]

About Artius

Artius (NASDAQ:AACQ) is a special purpose acquisition company formed for the purpose of effecting a merger, share exchange, asset acquisition, share purchase, reorganization or similar business combination with one or more businesses. Artius was co-founded by Charles Drucker, the former CEO of WorldPay, Inc., a leading payments company, and its predecessor company, Vantiv. Inc., and Boon Sim, the Founder and Managing Partner of Artius Capital Partners LLC. # Cautionary Note on Forward-Looking Statements

This communication contains "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the federal securities laws, including Section 27A of the Securities Act, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"). In this context, forward-looking statements often address expected future business and financial performance and financial condition, and often contain words such as "expect," "anticipate," "intend," "plan," "believe," "seek," "see," "will," "would," "target," similar expressions, and variations or negatives of these words. Forward-looking statements by their nature address matters that are, to different degrees, uncertain, such as statements about the proposed transaction, the expected timetable for completing the proposed transaction, the benefits and synergies of the proposed transaction, future opportunities for the combined company and products and any other statements regarding Artius's and Origin's future operations, anticipated growth, financial or operating results, capital allocation, market opportunities, strategies, anticipated business levels, future earnings, planned activities, dividend policy, debt ratio, competitions, and other expectations and targets for future periods. There are several factors which could cause actual plans and results to differ materially from those expressed or implied in forward-looking statements. Such factors include, but are not limited to, (i) the risk that the transaction may not be completed in a timely manner or at all, which may adversely affect the price of Artius's securities. (ii) the risk that the transaction may not be completed by Artius's business combination deadline, (iii) the failure to satisfy the conditions to the consummation of the transaction, including the adoption of the Agreement and Plan of Merger and Reorganization, by and between Artius Acquisition Inc., Zero Carbon Merger Sub Inc. and Micromidas, Inc., dated as of February 16, 2021 (the "Merger Agreement") by the shareholders of Artius, and the satisfaction of the minimum trust account amount following redemptions by Artius's public shareholders, (iv) the lack of a third party valuation in determining whether or not to pursue the proposed transaction, (v) the occurrence of any event, change or other circumstance that could give rise to the termination of the Merger Agreement, (vi) the effect of the announcement or pendency of the transaction on Origin's business relationships, operating results, and business generally, (vii) risks that the proposed transaction disrupts current plans and operations of Origin and potential difficulties in Origin employee retention as a result of the transaction, (viii) the outcome of any legal proceedings that may be instituted against Origin or against Artius related to the Merger Agreement or the proposed transaction, (ix) the ability to maintain the listing of Artius's securities on a national securities exchange, (x) the price of Artius's securities may be volatile due to a variety of factors, including the uncertainty of demand in the market that Artius plans to operate or Origin operates, variations in operating performance across competitors, changes in laws and regulations affecting the business and changes in the combined capital structure, (xi) the ability to implement business plans, forecasts, and other expectations after the completion of the proposed transaction, and identify and realize additional opportunities, (xii) the ability to manage rapid growth effectively, including completion of construction of facilities and beginning production in commercial quantities, (xiii) the maintenance, expansion and refurbishment of Origin's facilities, the construction of new facilities and the development and implementation of new manufacturing processes, which may have an adverse effect on the combined company's results of operations and financial condition. (xiv) the ability to discover, develop and protect new technologies and to protect and enforce Origin's or Artius's intellectual property rights, (xv) the fact that significant capital investment is required for the research & development of intellectual property and other proprietary information to improve and scale technological processes, (xvi) the fact that Origin is an early stage company with a history of losses and its future profitability is uncertain, (xvii) the uncertainty of financial projections which rely in part on assumptions about customer demand based on ongoing negotiations and indications of interest from potential customers (xviii) compliance with extensive environmental, health and safety laws could require material expenditures, changes in operations or site remediation, (xix) the risk of downturns and a changing regulatory landscape in the highly competitive industry, (xx) risks relating to the value of the Artius's shares to be issued in the transaction and uncertainty as to the long-term value of Artius's common stock, (xxi) disruptions and other impacts to Origin's business as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic and other global health or economic crises, (xxii) the amount of redemption requests made by Artius's stockholders, (xxiii) those factors discussed in Artius's final prospectus filed with the SEC on July 15, 2020 under the "Risk Factors" heading, and other documents Artius has filed, or will file, with the SEC and (xxiii) other risks to Artius's and Origin's business, operations and results of operations including from: failure to develop and market new products and optimally manage product life cycles; ability, cost and impact on business operations, including the supply chain, of responding to changes in market acceptance, rules, regulations and policies and failure to respond to such changes; failure to appropriately manage process safety and product stewardship issues; global economic and capital market conditions, including the continued availability of capital and financing, as well as inflation, interest and currency exchange rates; changes in political conditions, including tariffs, trade disputes and retaliatory actions; the availability of and fluctuations in the cost of energy and raw materials; business or supply disruption; security threats, such as acts of sabotage, terrorism or war, natural disasters and weather events and patterns which could result in a significant operational event for Origin or Artius, adversely impact demand or production; unpredictability and severity of catastrophic events, including, but not limited to, acts of terrorism or outbreak of war or hostilities, as well as management's response to any of the aforementioned factors. These risks, as well as other risks associated with the proposed merger, will be more fully discussed in the registration statement and merger proxy on Form S-4 to be filed by Artius. While the list of factors presented here is, and the list of factors to be presented in any registration statement filed in connection with the transaction are, considered representative, no such list should be considered to be a complete statement of all potential risks and uncertainties. Unlisted factors may present significant additional obstacles to the realization of forward looking statements. Further lists and descriptions of risks and uncertainties can be found in each of Artius's subsequent reports on Form 10-Q, Form 10-K and Form 8-K, the contents of which are not incorporated by reference into, nor do they form part of, this announcement. Any other risks associated with the proposed transaction will be more fully discussed in any registration statement filed with the SEC. While the list of factors presented here is, and the list of factors that may be presented in a registration statement of Artius would be, considered representative, no such list should be considered to be a complete statement of all potential risks and uncertainties. Unlisted factors may present significant additional obstacles to the realization of forward looking statements. Consequences of material differences in results as compared with those anticipated in the forward-looking statements could include, among other things, business disruption, operational problems, financial loss, legal liability to third parties and similar risks, any of which could have a material adverse effect on Artius's or Origin's consolidated financial condition, results of operations, credit rating or liquidity. Neither Artius nor Origin assumes any obligation to publicly provide revisions or updates to any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future developments or otherwise, should circumstances change, except as otherwise required by securities and other applicable laws.

Participants in the Solicitation

Artius, Origin and their respective directors and executive officers may be deemed to be participants in the solicitation of proxies from Artius's shareholders in connection with the proposed business combination. Information about Artius's directors and executive officers and their ownership of Artius's securities is set forth in Artius's final prospectus filed with the SEC on July 15, 2020. Additional information regarding the interests of those persons and other persons who may be deemed participants in the proposed transaction may be obtained by reading the proxy statement/prospectus regarding the proposed business combination when it becomes available.

Non-Solicitation

This communication is not a proxy statement or solicitation of a proxy, consent or authorization with respect to any securities or in respect of the potential transaction and shall not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy the securities of Artius, the combined company or Origin, nor shall there be any sale of any such securities in any state or jurisdiction in which such offer, solicitation or sale would be unlawful prior to registration or qualification under the securities laws of such state or jurisdiction. No offer of securities shall be made except by means of a prospectus meeting the requirements of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.
